PREFACE

Mystery stories are known and consumed more and more because they generate curiosity in those who read them. An example of mystery is the police series that every day gain space in people's lives because they are intriguing and involve the reader with their air of suspense and unlikely outcomes. Fact is, mystery is one of the most read literature worldwide and within it other genres can be encompassed. The narratives in this book bring fantastic tales based on unreal stories that go beyond the limits of reality.

During the first semester of 2022, in the bilingual project classes, we became familiar with the mystery theme and chose the fantastic tale genre for the textual productions. There were immersion classes in authors like Agatha Christie and Arthur Conan Doyle, famous for the categorical Sherlock Holmes and his adventures as a detective. Furthermore, with the support of didactic material, our students were able to immerse themselves in the field of forensic science, expanding their knowledge of how a criminal investigation is carried out.

Based on many readings and studies our authors/investigators are ready to share with you, dear readers, these mysteries and we need your help to unravel them. Are you ready for the challenge?

Have a good read!

Teacher Jaqueline Maria Zanluchi

WHAT HAPPENED?

The most expected date of the year had arrived for Lizzy, Maykon and Shawn: Halloween. This year the three of them decided to spend October 31st in a hut inside the dark forest near town. Of course they knew about the legends of the place, some say there was a mythical creature that would mess with the other's head, but supposedly it was a legend.

There they were, it was about one in the morning, they were all laughing and telling horror stories. Shawn went to the kitchen to get more food, when suddenly a loud scream was heard. The girls ran to meet Shawn and they found their friend in the kitchen being held by something that looked like a person but was enormous, had red eyes and its mouth was full of blood. Shawn was dead.

Lizzy and Maykon ran off the house and got into the forest, crying, and scared. It was too late, the monster was after them and killed one by one, eating their flesh.

The next day, the three of them woke up in their houses, safe and with a mystery to solve.

THE CASE OF LAURA LIMA

At 8 p.m a body was found in a coal mine of Tuiuti city, a place that hasn't occurred a murder for the last 10 years, the body was identified as Laura Lima, a 17 years old girl who was a firefighter apprentice. At 6 p.m a fire was taking place at the mine and Laura was sent there with her lieutenant to rescue two miners who were inside.

It was a huge fire with undefined causes and only two suspects left the place alive, the lieutenant and a miner who happened to be Laura's brother, Paulo. Both were sent to the police department and the only one who had an apparent reason to kill her was the lieutenant, because he had an aggressive retrospect, especially with her, and the brother seemed to love his sister. The miners' bodies were too burned to be identified, they were brought to the forensic medicine facility and when Paulo saw them he started to have some visions, like he could read minds. He was seeing everything that had happened inside the coal mine.

The memories of his companions and sister were inside him, everything was clear: during the fire the souls of the victims tried to escape from their bodies and as a substitute they entered Laura's body, that got overcharged and died. But he didn't know how to explain to the police, and the case was left unsolved.

THE "BEAR" FROM FORKS

On a very cold night at Forks, everyone was very excited because the great season of American Football had begun. After the game, Tyler Chandler, captain of the team, was returning to his home when he disappeared.

The other day, the police had already analyzed and declared that he had been attacked by a bear, even though no body was found but there were scratches and blood marks on the trees near his house, so the case was closed.

After that, four young people: Emma, Ethan, Rose and John who believed in the werewolf legend they had in town, decided to investigate, as the last bear had been found ten years ago. They immediately went to talk to his best friend, Jacob, asking if he wanted to participate in the search, but he was too "shaken". The only thing they knew was that the next victim could be someone on the team. And it was, three weeks later, three more athletes missing.

Days later, Emma and her friends joined the clues, and got to the conclusion that Jacob was the prime suspect. Then, they followed him to a barn where all the missing people were. The victims were all killed by Jacob, as they thought, the werewolf who was always jealous of the team for being excluded, this envy grew and turned into anger deciding to transform the team as revenge.

THE SNAKES

There was a blue house that was leased to a student group last month. It wasn't a normal house, but they didn't know it until their first night sleeping there. Suddenly they listened to noises coming from a place they had no idea where to find it.

Isabelly, the medicine student couldn't sleep with the noises, so she talked to Larissa, her economic student friend. Both started looking for where the noise was coming from. They found a secret room, which was locked. They tried to open the door so many times during that night, and finally Isa did it. What the girls didn't expect was that they would end up closing themselves inside the dark room. Larissa thought they were locked inside, but when she looked at Isa, she realized her friend had turned into a snake and.

All those noises were actually planned by Isabelly, and her other snake friends, to get Larissa's attention, and turn her into a snake too.

THE HUT

In a hut, in a snowy forest, lived a pretty woman, with blue eyes like crystal water and red hair like the fire. The lady, rebel as always, left the hut looking for something. High in the moonlight, with only a rag of clothes and bare feet. She screamed, didn't stopped, feet bled, voice failed.

She found the note, her skin was already white, now it was colorless, just like the snow under her feet. Desperate and aimless she looked for something else around, hopelessly, she walked towards the hut. Not a minute had passed, she came out again, this time carrying an object.

Sirens echoed, and the police arrived. Journalists ran to record the terrible accident. And then, they started talking - "Woman is found dead in a frozen forest, they believe she is the one who disappeared months ago, experts point out that she has been in this state for at least 3 months. At first, they suspect it was suicide, but new evidences points to possible murder, there was a knife, in her hand, and a note, wich said "FIND THE KINFE". Residentes are scared, as there is a legend: every decade a red-haired woman is sacrificed to serve the snowy forest; they believe that the origen of the curse is the hut.

DEATH IN PARADISE

Mike went on a simple trip with his friends, where one he wouldn't return home ever again. The destination was Season City where everything happens.

They were three friends, Mike, Paul and James. When they were there Mike was murdered, and the biggest suspects were his mates.

The trip went smoothly, the place where they stayed was beautiful, a paradisiacal landscape, but they did not expect the tragedy that was to come. Everything happened on the first night after a party, Mike was killed silently and without a trace, he was smothered by a pillow, nobody heard a thing and the next day his friends found him lifeless. When they found the body they went to call the police immediately. As soon as the officers arrived, they didn't understand what had happened, there were no signs or marks on the boy's body, the death was very well planned and executed.

The case was closed but I am telling you the truth: what killed the boy was a reincarnation of someone from 1780 in Paul's body that was never able to reach peace. Its plans were to avenge his tragic death even though Mike didn't have anything to do with it. I guess we all have our lucky day.

WHEN I WAS FIVE YEARS OLD

When Josh was just five years old, he met Dylan who was his best friend. They did absolutely everything together. Dylan's mother was named Loren and Josh's father was Teddy, Loren worked for the city hall earning a pittance, while Teddy was a very renowned cardiologist in their hospital of Denver.

Teddy was never very present in his son's life, he was always at work, while Loren, despite having little money, was always together with Dylan, taking him to school and going to presentations. Josh never seemed to be overly jealous of his friend's relationship with his mother, but sometimes he scowled and didn't have much to do.

It was Loren's day to take the kids to school, when they had an accident on the way, nobody could explain what had happened, they just knew that nobody had hit them. Loren was nervous, but seeing that no one had been hurt, she continued on her way to school. Arriving there, the boys told all the children what had happened, inventing several lies, such as a monster, as if they were small children, everyone believed.

Loren tried to see with the streets management if they could pass the security camera images and took it to the police, there they managed to see, that it was a lunatic octopus that had escaped from his aquarium, and to everyone's surprise, he spoke, and told all the bad treatments he suffered while living in aquarium.

THE RED LAKE

Barbara, Mateus and Bruno are always very curious about mystery stories. At only 13 years old they are always looking for an adventure, if it brings some horror it is even better for them.

One day, around three in the afternoon, Barbara was hearing the news and a very scary piece of information in the newspaper came up. It talked about a case that was happening in the most famous lake of her city. In the news it said that around midnight, the lake turned red and all the people who passed through it at that time never came back. At the moment Barbara heard that, she ran to pick up the phone and call Bruno and Mateus, and even knowing the risk, they had the idea to investigate this mystery.

They spent the rest of the afternoon together thinking about strategies to solve the mystery, and when it was close to midnight, they went off to the lake. They got there and even with a lot of fear they put the plan into action. They had built a machine that always beeped when there was a monster or something supernatural close by. When they just got a little closer to the lake, the machine beeped, showing that there was a vampire near them. With this information the friends soon reasoned that the lake was red because of the blood of the people that the vampire was biting, very scared they left the place before they were killed and went to the police station to tell the cops the discovery they had made. Now they all had to figure out a way to kill the vampire to end the killings.

GREEN CONTAGION

"In today's newspaper we are going to talk about the biggest mystery of the city of Quinedo, which is killing thousands of people. The case remains open, and the very famous doctor Charles Darling tries to solve this mystery but isn't getting any results. For now, people don't stop exploding with a green liquid in their bodies, we at the newspaper, inform all people." At his house, the famous Charles Darling, after seeing the newspaper, rushed out of his house and went to the hospital.

The streets were buried with the green liquid, people kept dying. It was a very contagious disease, and the doctor could do nothing but try to solve this case. Arriving at the hospital, the doctor was called straight to the meeting room, where he told the other doctors that he was very nervous, and that he was suspicious that the vaccine people were taking was killing them, instead of healing them.

The other doctors found him crazy, because the vaccine was tested on animals and the test had worked, but the doctor believed that something in the test had gone wrong. After the meeting he went to the lab and tested the vaccine one more time. With more accurate data, he discovered that it was really the reason why people were exploding green. With this information, the population stopped taking the vaccine and a new one started to be developed.

PERSECUTION

James Ross, the worst serial killer in Los Angeles, seemed to be a kind and rational person, but only his victims could witness his true identity. One day one person caught his attention, Sarah Smith, a very charming girl, who worked in a diner in Los Angeles, which despite being a beautiful and special city, behind it all was very dark.

The first time James Ross saw Sarah was in one afternoon while she was working. He fell in love with her, and after that, every day he followed her around like he was obsessed. He figured out where she lives, all her routine, her relatives and even knew about her ex boyfriend, with whom she didn't have a healthy relationship. James was so angry with this situation that he went after Sarah's ex and killed him for mistreating his beloved. Every guy who tried to get near Sarah was then murder by the serial killer. And so it was like that for months.

James was so obsessed with Sarah that he couldn't stand being away from her anymore and ended up killing her too, by kidnapping the girl and cutting off every bit of her body.

What he didn't know was that Sarah's soul came back and haunted him a lot, making him committing suicide.

MR. BIG NOSE

Everyone in the village was afraid of him: Mr. Big Nose. Yes, maybe that wasn't his real name, but his nose was so weird and big that it was the only surname the pranky kids could find. Mr. Big Nose appeared in the city sometimes to get some supplies but he lived at an old house in the forest that no one dared to visit, except for Igor and Isa, who were siblings.

One day, both of them were bored and decided to discover more about the man, and the only way to do it was to get into the scary forest. When they finally found the house, the siblings entered the place. It was rooting, with lots of spiders and their webs. Suddenly, they heard steps, but the last thing that they could see was the old man, with anger in his eyes, going down the stairs.

Once Isa woke up, she saw Mr. Big Nose with a knife, laughing with a big smile. But, something was different. That "thing" that she saw in front of her was... "wearing" Igor's skin. When she realized that the old man she used to watch from far away wasn't a human, but actually some kind of monster, it was too late for her, and until nowadays, no one ever found out what happened with the siblings.

THE MYSTERY OF THE PIRATE SHIP

It all starts with an explorer, fascinated by hidden treasures, and his name is Jack. Since he was a child Jack has been looking for traces of a sunken ship, which is on the outskirts of a hidden island and protected by a crew of ghost pirates, the only clue is that this island is located somewhere in the Atlantic ocean.

It has been 10 years since the research. Jack has been looking for this hidden island, this time he was determined to find the place, so he makes a trip to the ocean to find it. On the trip, he begins to review the clues and traces he has, then he finds a possible clue to the location of the island. He manages to find the island, and from far he can see the tip of something that looks like the tip of the ship's sail, so he runs to the forest inside the island looking for the ship.

When Jack arrives in a part of the forest he is surprised by a jaguar, than he tries to kill him, the animal hits him with a scratch but he manages to stab the jaguar in the head, so he continues his search for the ship, he is walking through the forest when he finds a cave and in the bottom of the cave he sees the ship, he gets on the ship, Jack is surprised by two ghost pirates, he runs inside the ship but the only way he could kill these pirates is by opening the treasure chest. Inside the ship he spots the chest, but when he gets close, a ghost appears, and hits him with a cannonball. And so the treasure continues to be protected by the ghost pirates.

THE SILVER KNIFE

The year was 1894, Silveira, an ex-slave, was recently hired as butler, in a mansion at Taubaté, São Paulo. His bosses, Joana and Villela, earned a lot of money with the coffee crops but they were aggressive at him. Because of it, Silveira decided to run away from that mansion. But how and when? He had to be careful planning it, because Villela was each time more dangerous.

The big day came. Silveira was walking around, waiting for his bosses to serve their meal (it was already 17:00). When he opened the kitchen's door, he saw a terrible scene: Joana was totally dismembered, with blood in the walls and lots of knife marks in the corpse. Silveira was terrified, and he was surprised when droplets of blood fell in his clothes. Her head was hanging in the ceiling without any rope or something to hold it there, only a black bow tie, that was from Silveira, was around her neck.

The butler went outside, but the bosses' daughter, Olivia, appeared and seeing him, got to the conclusion he was the murderer. All evidence was against Silveira, so is he guilty? Silveira started to run in the hallway while Olivia screamed and threatened him. Then, the butler entered quickly in a random room, and saw Villela floating in the air, dirty with blood and a silver knife in hands. That knife, of unknown origins, was ironically Joana's gift, but Villela refused it because something in the knife was trying to convince him of doing something. Apparently possessed, Villela, or something which had taken his body, said to Silveira, already scared: "I always warned Villela that Joana wasn't good for him. But he never heard me, so I had to kill her, for his sake. Don't run, butler. I need help getting rid of this body..."

THE BLANKE'S HOUSE

The Blanke's House never was the same after the death of the duke Blanke. His wife's tearful screams could be heard everywhere, being mixed with the sound of furniture that was always moving around.

But one day the noises stopped, the duchess's body was already lifeless. An autopsy was performed, her death was dated from two years ago. Then a question arose among the neighborhood: who was making the noises? Soon, fear spread among the community, and a request for the burning of the house and exorcism of the land was made.

However, even with all the rituals done, something still inhabited the land. A priest was called, but as he approached the area his state of shock prevented a verdict. The bad language said that he saw a demon. Is it possible?

A COTTAGE FOR SALE

"Mom! Dad! We have arrived." It was the only thing said as Caleb and Raven entered the family's isolated cottage. Next, they couldn't take their eyes off their parent's bodies lying on the floor. The day November 29 of 2007 would be marked in their lives forever. The girl cried next to what once was her family, and her brother, holding his tears, tried to calm her down. "Don't worry, little crow. Everything's going to be fine." No it will not.

What happened before they arrived was a mystery. The siblings tried to speculate and to relax, as they waited for the policemen. Who would have done something like that? There weren't any fight marks, just a lot of dirt, so the victims could have been surprised or the culprit was much stronger than them. "The cops are taking too long to come. I'm going to wait outside", said Raven, as she walked to the front door. But suddenly the door closed. She tried to open it. Then Caleb tried to help her, but the door didn't open. The boy ran to the back door, but it closed as he arrived there. The sound of the windows closing started right after. The panic began when they realized: "We are stuck in the house."

The radio started to play a popular song. "A little dream castle with every dream gone is lonely and silent, the shades are all drawn. And my heart is heavy, as I gaze upon a cottage for sale." The prisoners froze, as they remembered the meeting last night. Next week, the house would be sold to someone who would demolish it. Could the parents know something? Could the cottage hear them? But it was too late to reach any conclusion. The place didn't hesitate to swallow their bodies, as they disappeared into the ground darkness.

WHO RELEASED THE ALIENS?

In 2023, after a visit from the president of the United States to area 51, some aliens were intentionally released by someone and they spread around the world, so a very good detective was called to solve the mystery of who freed these creatures.

The detective begins to investigate and finds some clues in area 51. In the cell where the aliens were being held, the President's security fingerprints were found. The man wanted revenge on the president as he hadn't received his salary, which made him a possible guilty of the crime. Another suspect was a soldier who had the keys to the cell. Meanwhile, the aliens were getting out of control, they started to destroy some cities.

Trying to exterminate the aliens, the U.S. government called for all the help they could get, but everything failed. Nobody could defeat the aliens and so the world ended up dominated by them.

No one could ever find out who released the aliens after all.

THE CURSE OF FULL MOON

One day, in a dark night and silent street a man was walking when he found a dead body near a parking lot. The body seemed to be 20 years old and had a lot of bites around the belly and legs, besides lots of scratches. The man who found the body was Greg and he was a detective so he decided to investigate.

To start the investigation Greg decided to talk to the people close to the crime scene, the first person he talked to was the parking security guard, Louis, he said that when he arrived on his shift he heard something and saw a figure similar to a wolf. The detective then decided to talk to a nearby resident who confirmed what the security guard had said. The neighbor heard and even saw the shape of something resembling a wolf, but he also claims that this is not the first time he has seen that thing. A week before the resident had seen the figure in the same place, the detective used this to his advantage and planned a trap to capture the supposed wolf.

The following night, with the trap set, Greg waited until he got something. When he arrived at the scene, he saw a werewolf with the security guard's clothes, and when the clouds covered the moon the werewolf returned to being Louis.

It was because of a curse that was thrown at him, he can't remember anything when he is like a werewolf, becoming very dangerous and so he decided to arrest the bouncer during full moons. The case was solved.

THE MYSTERY OF MINNESOTA

It was December of 1921, winter was already at its peak. There was a special house in Minnesota, where all of the Jhonson's were living. Until something happened to one of them, Noah disappeared. The grandpa of the family then called a private investigator named Alfred.

The main suspect was Frederico, the grandpa, who was the first to find the body in the snow and he had a long relation of hate with Noah, his grandson. After investigating each relative of the family, there was another death, this time a woman was found lifeless alson in the snow, the butler of the house warned everyone. Each minute that passed, Alfred was more and more integrated, because now he had as main suspects, the grandpa and the butler, named Garbuio. But this time there was a witness, the gardener, Sir Valdisnei.

When Alfred was interviewing, Sir Valdisnei said the murderer was the grandpa, and with photos as proofs, the investigator was convinced. When he was taking Frederico to the cops, all of the family went outside besides the butler and the gardener, who had a shiny purple whistle on his hands. Suddenly after a modified whistle sound, a hole in the snow was opened with a gigantic creature coming out and swallowing all of the family and the police. Years later, the FBI arrested the butler and the gardener but no statement was done after the case was closed.

THE PRICE

I'll tell the story of three girls that sold their souls to the devil to become pretty and popular. Their names were Roxy, Char and Beatrixy. They were tired of being bullied, so in a slumber party they decided to make a cult. In this cult they needed to sacrifice someone, so they ordered a pizza and sacrificed the delivery man. At first it worked out, but they became demons, and to keep the good look, they had to keep sacrificing people.

In North-West College, populars and nerds start disappearing after these three girls become popular. With the prom getting closer the girls already had partners to dance with. After the prom night the boys and the girls were very happy so they decided to go home and have an afterparty. It would be a closed party just for the six of them, but this "party" wasn't what the boys thought it would be. Roxy offered some drinks to the boys, they accepted and passed out, so the girls started the cult, sacrificed the boys and hid their bodies in Roxy's garden.

Some weeks later Roxy's brother, Roby, found a decomposing corpse outside the house while he was planting some tomatoes to his mom. He called the police and after some hours making some tests on the corpse the police found out that it was one of the boys who went missing. Since Char, Beatrixy and Roxy were the main suspects the cops decided to interrogate these three girls. Do you think they got caught?

THE CRACKS

There she was, saying goodbye to her old family mansion. The girl didn't know why they were moving, but she noticed that her parents were a little bit worried, all she knew was that the house was almost falling apart. Now the entire house was empty, all the childhood memories had gone. When the sun went down her happiness went too. Soon the wind dominates the atmosphere.

She had a bad feeling when the mailbox started to shake and a mysterious letter ran away of it, luckily, she got it before the wind. Immediately the girl heard a whisper coming from the house saying "you can't run away from me". She thought it was all in her head.

When the family arrived at the new house (the grandma's house), the girl heard the adults talking in the kitchen. They were talking about a big family's secret and got even more curious about it, making her want to read the letter. A few hours later, there she was, reading it and shuddering at every word written in the paper, and finally decided to talk with her grandma.

The old lady revealed that her great-grandfather killed a man who had stolen the family's fortune and his spirit continues to curse the great-grandfather's family making mysterious cracks and haunting everyone who lives in the mansion.

After the conversation, the girl felt dizzy and didn't want to believe that curse story but it was really true. Therefore she went to the bed, when she was asleep, she heard wall crackling noises and got out to turn on the lights, and see what was happening. Now the wind dominates the atmosphere. When she saw it, a big crack which was in capital letters was written in the wall "YOU CAN'T RUN AWAY FROM ME", all she heard was a scream.

THE REVENGE

In a camp in California, there were 6 people: Akeli, Max, John, Tony, Tiffany and the owner of the camp, Victoria. They were there to spend a wonderful weekend that turned into a nightmare. It was around three o'clock at dawn when Akeli, Tiffany and Victoria went to get wood for the fire, suddenly they heard Max's screams not too far from where they were and very scared they ran back to the camp, afraid of what they could find.

After ten minutes, they found Max's body, with scratches on his chest, and without his heart, Victoria called Detective Bruce to cope with Tony, to find out who had killed Max. They did an autopsy on the body, and discovered that he had been dead for over 5 hours. Back to the investigation, Tony and Bruce were walking around the camp, when they heard a voice from beyond the trees, telling them to look to the other side, and then they saw an old hut, they entered the hut and found blood everywhere. The door opened, it was Akeli, she was possessed by some old spirit from the forest that made her kill his friend.

They both were really scared with what they saw and decided to leave the place without questioning anything, otherwise they could be the next. As for the voice they heard, it is still a mystery.

ANGELOS' & ODYSSEY

Angelo is a mysterious man who, when he walks through a magical door, goes to a random moment in time. It was a mystery, so the police tried to solve this case. The problem was: nobody knew the location of this door.

Angelo was committing a series of crimes so Detective Paul developed a plan to prevent Angelo not going through the door anymore, but this is out of his control, so he asks the FBI for help. They develop a method to put on every door in the U.S.A., a type of lock that could block his trip. But they didn't know that Angelo could open portals too that work like doors. After many years they managed to put Angelo in prison.

So they created a hand cuff to use on him that would lock his travels around space-time, they put him in a white room where he had no concept of space, and they do research on why this anomaly exists. For safety, they ripped off his arms and put on prosthesis. After Angelo spent a long time in prison with a scientist studying him, they discovered that he wasn't the only one who had this power and that it was caused by a very radioactive object that ended up in the sewer of the city, where Angelo lived.

THE OTHER SIDE

In a distant future there was an incredible detective named Jarvis. He was half human, half robot, who had left the human feelings to solve the most horrible crimes. One day, he received a call that was reporting a crime and so off he went to solve the mystery.

The number was giving the coordinates from an old farm, it was close to the city, so it didn't take long to get there. The entry had a path of blood, he followed it until the end, there was a body. He fastly analyzed the place with his robotic eye, in the body it was written: "Inside of you. End of file..." he passed out.

He woke up and finally understood what had happened, he was the murder, exactly his half robot part was the killer. He was afraid of what the "robot" inside of him could do if he stayed alive, so he killed himself, but he left a message for the people:

-For a better world...

FOUR FRIENDS AND ONE TRAITOR

October 5th, 1980. In front of Jacob's hut, Charles, Michael and Jacob were laughing after a fun hunt, they realized James is not with them and were confused. When they opened the closet door to store their coats James' body fell hard and cold on the floor. The three of them looked at each other, too scared to be able to say something. The day after James' funeral, the three friends gathered to talk about what had happened with James.

– There's a traitor between us - said Charles

– Do you really believe it is one of us? We have been friends since childhood - said Michael a little disappointed.

Then, they realized that Jacob was scared, looking at a fixed point. When they turned around they realized that James was standing on the door, with a really serious face and his body was transduced, they could still see what was behind him.

– How could you do this to me, Jacob? We were friends since our childhood - James's spirit spoke distressed and mad.

– Ja-Ja-James? Are you alive? How did it happen? - Jacob spoke nervously.

– Doesn't matter if I am alive or dead, you cheated me, when you had the opportunity you killed me! - James shouted.

– It was you who killed James, Jacob? You are an idiot! How could you do that? - Michael said enraged.

– You are a complete idiot! - said Charles going towards Jacob and punching him in the face.

Jacob quickly retaliates, and they both start to fight. James, got very furious and taken by emotions, he got a gun that was nearby and shot Jacob. He was dead.

– James, I know we are in a very complicated situation, but you know, or it was us or it was him, you did the right thing. - said Michael.

And there were them again, in the same place, burying another friend, being only the two of them.

HELL ENTITIES

Tampa 1993, Juan García, a normal guy who works with supernatural things is called with one of his friends Brandom Jenkins to investigate another case, they are heading to a house on the outskirts of town to solve a mystery because there are reports of a Poltergeist in the area. Brandom is apprehensive about his life and career, Juan is focused on his work and what he should do.

After arriving at the place, they prepared the equipment and were ready for the hunt, but apparently who would hunt something was the ghost. Shortly after entering the house, they had a strange feeling, as if there was someone there. Brandom was going to investigate the room and Juan the basement. In the basement, Juan found elements of a ritual and when looking back he saw a ghost and then he ran, but the Poltergeist was chasing him nonstop. Brandom hid in the closet and found evidence that the former owner of the house had performed a ritual and thus became a ghost.

García and Jenkins got together and were able to expel the ghost to the other world. I mean hell.

THENTIE'S DEATH FAIRIES

Fell dead on the floor of the hotel, the man who had just turned 25, no traces of blood, just a mark on his wrists in the shape of a tiny claus. No one noticed his disappearance during the bath, they just heard muffled screams as if someone was covering his mouth.

There were 154 murders of the same format without traces of blood, without scandalous noises and most importantly, without any camera capturing the presence of a suspect. The only thing that the camera registered was the swing of the curtains, even though no window was open. After the man's death, some evidence was noticed, a kind of tiny wig was left by the killer next to the bathtub.

Government police went to investigate and ended up closing the hotel and not opening it again. The mystery of 155 all at bath time were never solved but they found a small paper written "We little fairies will still find you and take you to our paradise, Thentie Kingdom, we are waiting for you."

THE ATTACK OF THE WENDIGOS

In 1880, in The United Kingdom the Anglo-Arejan war had just ended. The kingdom was having a very good time except for London, where a series of attacks on butcheries were happening. Lots of these places were being invaded, there were always broken glasses and all the meat seemed to be eaten. But here comes the strangest thing: the butchers of the place were also eaten!

To solve the case, the authorities called Jhonatan Goodman, an excellent detective who would find out this mystery. For him, this case would make him famous internationally, all he ever wanted for his life. His plan was to camp at a local butchery that hadn't been attacked yet and wait for the action. He took with him six other police officers and suddenly they all saw the culprit: a mythological creature called Wendigo. It was about three meters tall, it was thin and had a really scary appearance. All the officers were paralyzed but detective Goodman, who had a very good knowledge about mythical creatures knew how to kill the half man, half animal creature and so was done.

He quickly lit a flame over the Wendigo and he fell dead. All the people in London were safe now and the detective got his fame.

THE MYSTERY OF THE OUIJA

On a dark night, on a street called “Every five tree die”, five boys went to venture into a dark house to play a game. What would be wrong with playing a boardgame, where the possibility of dying is high?

They went to play the Ouija board. For the first three rounds the game was clean, like their souls. Mike, the bravest of them who was not afraid of anything, was the first to die, being eaten by spiders. The boys heard the screams, but made fun of him, calling him fearful, then continued the game without fear of being the next victim. Alex the next target was sucked by a plant that was in the dinner room. The last three players continued playing, until Lucca was possessed, so seeing all that the last two players were scared. They left running like there was no tomorrow and went to find detective Riot, who was a mester of supernatural cases.

Riot told about the legend of the house. 100 years ago, a man lived in this house, who had a Ouija board which teenagers were obsessed with playing, so they invaded his house to play. One day, he woke up and saw some people. With much anger he expelled the boys, but the boys, not satisfied, killed him, creating the legend where the players would be killed. The mystery was how to end the curse. There were no answers, the only thing you mustn't do is go into the house and play the game.

JEALOUS

The murder of two young people has always been a great mystery. Sara and Robert, teenagers from the same school, disappeared completely last summer. Some thought they had run away to live a great love, others imagined they had just gone missing for a while and would return at any time.

Mario was the only one who knew the whole truth. He was Sara's ex boyfriend and never took well to the fact that she had broken up with him last year. He spent months suffering and trying to get her back, and when he finally saw there would be no reconciliation, he decided to kill them both. The murder happened hot night of July, Mario committed the perfect crime and hid the bodies where no one could ever find. Some nights later, the killer started being haunted by Sara and Robert's spirit. Mario could no longer stand being disturbed by the couple, so he wrote a letter, telling everything he had done, confessing that he did not deal well with the pain of being replaced.

It was too much pain for Mario who committed suicide after he could no longer stand being disturbed by the spirit of the young couple.

THE GHOSTS

Isabella moved to a house with her friend that not long ago a couple who had been murdered lived in. The house was very strange, doors knocked out of nowhere, glasses mysteriously broke, blood stains appeared every night in different places, sometimes on sheets, mirrors or even on doors, in addition, her dog Teddy barked a lot every day to a little room in the backyard. The girls went there but the door was locked and nothing would open-it.

The days passed by and strange things continued to happen, until Isabela had the brilliant idea of breaking into the door of the mysterious room, she tried a few times and nothing, she called her neighbor to help her, until they succed, when they opened the door, an icy and fast wind came out and there were the two ghosts of the murdered couple, they haunted anyone who entered the house, all this in search of revenge for the man who took their lives away.

Isabella discovered through the ghosts that the man who killed the couple was their own father, she was very scared and terrified because he was the one who indicated the house for them to live in. She called up the police that ended up arresting the guilty man. In the end the ghosts could rest in peace after all.

GHOST CASE

Pleasure, I'm Adam Füstenberg, the most renowned detective in the world, I've solved cases that no one dreams of solving. Something really strange happened three days ago, a supernatural entity appeared in my house and that doesn't stop following me, it doesn't leave alone and keeps talking all day.

The infamous detective just got a new case and of course his new "friend" got involved.

"Do we really need to go? I'm asleep, let's go home!" - exclaimed the ghost.

"Yes. Now be quiet FOR GOD SAKE!!" - replied the detective.

Arriving at the scene they went to identify the body, it was the famous doctor James Broadstreet, who died mysteriously after discovering the cure of cancer. Suddenly a roar echoed through the room, however, only Adam heard and when he looked back the ghost was in tears, screaming in panic: "IT'S ME IT'S ME, I'M DEAD".

In the end, it was discovered that James was murdered by a member of the government, after all, cancer makes a lot of money and they wouldn't let a scientist cut their profits. In the end everything was solved, the ghost with no reason to be there went to have his eternal rest but before leaving he left a message to Adam: "I'll see you when you die!" and then disappeared.

THE BONE STEALER

Michael, Arthur and James have been friends since childhood, they lived in the same street, and at the end of that street, there was a house where the owner died lying in his bed. They were very curious, so they decided to enter the place.

They arrived at the house and Arthur said: "I don't think we should be in here" and James replied: "Are you scared?" Arthur denied it and they continued walking through the rooms. They entered a bedroom and under the bed there was a wooden box with a human skeleton inside, soon all the doors and windows started slamming incessantly. They ran away, however something under the bed caught James' foot and he was left behind. Michael wanted to go back and get James but Arthur said: "There's no way I'm getting there again". Michael ignored Arthur and ran to save his friend, but when he entered the bedroom, he saw the skeleton that was there before and another one, smaller, looked like a child, just like James.

He got out of there as fast as possible, when he returned to the front door, Arthur was no longer there. He quickly called the police. When they arrived they didn't find the boy's bodies or the bones.

THE TEACHER'S SOUL

Flynn was a boy who had just finished high school and entered a journalism university in Helltown, Germany.

Everything seemed to be normal around there, Flynn made some friends and was enjoying all of his classes. One day, during a math class he noticed that Mike, one of his new friends, was very nervous and a bit scared in the presence of the teacher, Michael. After that, Mike disappeared.

Flynn started to realize that something really dark was behind his teacher's personality and decided to investigate. He started by following Michael to his house, which by the way was a very weird place. Of course Flynn waited until nobody was home and broke into the house to see the most horrible scene he could possibly witness: lots of students dead, tortured by their own teacher. Very scared, Flynn called the police that quickly got Michael and put him in jail.

When he was in jail, his student's souls disturbed him. The teacher wrote a letter saying that he would commit suicide, and so was done. But nobody could find his body. Some people say that the souls hid the teacher's corpse away.

THE HOUSE

It was a rainy night, Edy was coming back from his friend's house. At a crossroads, he came across weird things: a roast chicken and red candles lit. The boy kicked all that, in a gesture of debauchery.

A few days later, strange things began to happen in his house, such as: windows opening on their own, steps all over the places, chains dragging, as well as figures and flying objects. After many days of fear, Edy remembered the night he had kicked those things so he decided to research the subject and found no solution.

After a while living with that situation, Edy ended up being cursed and becoming haunting as almost like a ghost, a demon or something like that, he began to haunt his neighbors who kicked him off the street, so he went to live in a Transylvania hotel.

THE BROKEN MIRROR

In the city of Poorland there is a law that the ruler of the city must always come from the same family, it means that the mayor's government is passed from generation to generation. And so it has been for many years. On a rainy night, in the mayor's mansion, a murder took place, while the first lady was getting ready for an important dinner, she died. Scared, her husband called the local authorities and after some time a group of police arrived at their house. A detective got at the crime scene and faced a broken window, there was a dressing table and a broken mirror, he soon deduced that it was a robbery with murder.

The case was closed in five hours because they didn't have much evidence, but another murder had already happened later at the dinner. The mayor's son died in the bathroom, and the evidence was the same from the first crime, a broken mirror. The place was closed and dinner canceled immediately. In a week, half of the family who founded the city had died, with that the detective had already got some ideas.

After a lot of research about the mayor's family the detective discovered an old murder that the former ruler of Poorland had committed, he killed one of his employers who swore to come back to kill his heirs, and so he did. Scared by the situation, the detective went to spread what he had found and suddenly a ghost appeared and killed him.

THE MISSING PEOPLE

One day, a farmer was walking around his farm when he found a boy's body torn apart, he immediately called the police. After half an hour, the cops arrived but the farmer wasn't there, just his phone next to the boy's body. The weirdest thing is that there was no knife or fingerprint of who did that.

They got the DNA from the boy's body and his name was James Miller. A cop named Max saw some news that a lot of teenagers were disappearing or being found dead around that region. Max was curious about what was happening and went to the farm again. He got into the farmer's house, he saw a basement and all the disappeared people, all lifeless. He found a book, which said that someone performed a ritual that released a demon that would disappear with all teenagers, one by one. To kill the demon, the detective must sacrifice himself. Max was nervous, he didn't want to do it, but he knew that all teens would be safe.

He did it... the demon was sent to his own dimension, but before he did the sacrifice, he recorded a video telling everything about what happened and the book, everyone started to know about Max and he turned into a hero.

THE ANTI-MAGIC

In a distant world, there was a civilization where all people have magic powers. A series of murders was happening, but they couldn't find the murder, so they called the best detective that they had and for sure one of the best magician too. At first, he rejected the call, but after taking a look at the crime report, he realized something strange, there weren't any magic traces.

He went to all the crime scenes and it was true, no magic traces and the people clearly had been killed by a blade. He went back to the police precinct, there was a witness who described the killer as: blonde, tall and pale skin. The detective then went out for the man. The detective started talking to people, but most of them hadn't seen the suspect, until a young girl said that he had gone to a nearby forest.

The detective went back to his house to get prepared and get his weapons. When he got to the forest, the killer was there, planning his next crime. The battle started and the investigator was in disadvantage, every magic that he throwed was destroyed by the killer's blade and after trying to defend a blow with a magic shield, he got hit and at that moment he realized the killer used anti-magic. The detective died and the killer continues killing people.

BRUCE CHASE'S DEATH

I feel cold and dizzy, when I look around I see that I'm in my living room and when I look down I see a body with a face in the ground. I try to see who it is, but I can't touch it. My maid, Clarissa, screamed when she saw the body. I try to calm her down, but it looks like she doesn't hear me. A couple minutes after that, the cops came in. I try to explain why I'm there, that I just woke up and don't remember anything, but nobody answered me.

The cops picked up the body and told the day and time of the death, May 27 1983, at 2 a.m. When they turn the body I see a face that I know, my own. I started to panic, I screamed for help, but again nobody helped me. I follow them, and I hear my sister, Beatrice crying and saying how much she loves me. I started to question why she was there, she never visits me, then I see that her hand has gunpowder, but the cops don't realize it. I keep trying to send signs, it doesn't work. I remember some books I have read, that ghosts who haven't finished their purpose can enter in their bodies for one last time, that is my chance. I fly in the direction of the body, and I go in. At first I felt very strange. I stand up and point to my sister and I fly away, everybody is in shock, the cops start to shoot everywhere and then run away, but my sister is still there.

A couple years passed, and my house became a haunted mansion, but still has somebody living there, my sister, who killed me and took all my money.

THE INHUMAN CELLS

There was a time, in London, where a wave of similar crimes was happening. Detective Francoi Smith was investigating one of these crimes where the famous scientist Michael Johnson, owner of the Star Lab, was found dead with his body that seemed to be eaten.

After some investigation the clues led detective Smith to Star Lab where Michael's wife was working on some new experiments. He asked some questions, but she refused to answer, it seemed that she was hiding something. Not satisfied with the situation, the detective decided to come back, during the night, at a time where nobody would be there.

Dawn comes and Francoi Smith was there to discover that Mrs Johnson had created monsters, zombies that eat human meat and that was one of the zombies that killed Michael, it was all recorded in a type.

Out of nowhere Mrs Johnson arrived and confessed that her husband was against her idea, so she had no option but to kill him. Hearing it, very angry with her words, detective Smith threw her body into one of the cells containing a zombie, to be eaten just like she did with her husband.

THE MYSTERY FOREST

It was late, and the sun was already setting. I was sitting on a bench, looking at the horizon, it was beautiful. Nearby, there was a grove full of trees, where it was said to have mystical creatures and talking trees. The problem was, everyone who entered it couldn't get out. However, as I don't believe in superstitions, I went there to prove that it wasn't real.

I got in there, and it was the most beautiful place in the world, I lost my breath. Everything seemed unreal. Walking around, I found wolves, foxes, squirrels and various other animals. I started taking pictures; until I heard a voice telling me to get out of there before it was too late. I turned around and it was a tree. How can trees talk? That's impossible! So I left everything behind and started running...

So everything was true, mythical creatures and talking trees really exist! I should have believed.

THE DARK MIST

On an ordinary Friday night, a family was gathered at home because an intense storm was destroying the city. In the morning, the rain had stopped and the weather improved. The father and the son left the house to see the situation in the neighborhood, they saw the destruction and decided to stock up on supplies in case there was a new storm, and so they left for the supermarket.

After a while in the car , they could see what the storm did to the city , the radio didn't work, the power lights were out, a great fog intensely dominated the city. The supermarket was in chaos, everyone worried until a bloodied old man arrived at the place asking to lock the doors because the fog “pulled” his friend, leaving everyone even more desperate. The people in the supermarket were divided, some wanted to leave and others to stay.

When the night came some people decided to come back home, but they took some precautions. They tied themselves up to a rope, if something happened, the people inside would pull them in again and they would be safe, but the plane failed. The rope busted and only screams were heard. The people inside died little by little and no one knew what was in the dark mist and when it would stop.

WHEN I IN THE PAST

On April 18th 1994, a murder took place in a residence in the south of São Paulo. A boy named Jonas Leite, on a Friday, witnessed the death of his mother, Olinda Leite who died two weeks after divorcing her husband, Algacir Leite. The murder remained a mystery.

In 2014, after becoming an investigator, Jonas decided to reopen the case. After going to the police station to pick up the samples collected at the time, he spent weeks analyzing them in order to discover something. However, after a long time of analysis, he found out that the two DNAs at the crime scene were from Leite's family. Having this information, he became addicted to solve the case. At last he could discover the biggest mystery of his life, who was responsible for his mother's death.

But the result he got left him in shock. Because the killer of Olinda Leite, according to DNA tests, was Jonas when adult. So, would he travel through time? Could he be in a hell loop? It's another mystery he needs to solve.

THE BUBBLE

Hi, I'm Edward, I discovered something that you might wanna know. Let's start a few days ago. One day, I was going to work when it started to rain just on top of my car. I found it strange and started to wonder why, until I saw my neighbor walking with his dog and asked if he saw the same thing. He froze and didn't answer me. Very strange!

After that I started to observe and realize that something was really wrong. The days seemed to loop, the same situations at the same times and the people were happening. It all seemed planned. At the moment I started freaking out, I didn't know what to do, until I decided to write to you, I think it might be my only solution. So take me seriously, life here hasn't been easy. I'm not measuring efforts to find a loophole in this matrix, I hope it doesn't take too long for that to happen.

Be careful, you could be in the same situation as me and you don't even know it. If you find out that you are, good luck! The world inside a bubble doesn't seem 100% safe.

THE MYSTERY OF THE HOUSE

Ana lived in a beautiful city when she was little and when she got older she moved to study in a college, but she didn't know that her new city kept many mysteries.

When she moved, she rented a house. This house was haunted, but of course, she didn't know. When she was in college the alarm rang, then a notification came on her cell phone warning her. She went straight home to see what had happened but when she arrived there nothing had activated the alarm, she came back to college and when she was on her way, the alarm rang one more time, so she decided to investigate the cause.

She found a secret passage in the house and entered it, but she didn't know it was a trap, as she was stuck in a dark place. She decided to explore the place, until she found a lot of skeletons of former residents, a few days passed and she was without food and water and ended up dying, after she died the skeletons that were there started to devour her body.

IT'S ALL ABOUT TRUST

Mr. John was very worried, there was something very wrong in his farm, some of his animals had disappeared and he had no idea of how it had happened.

- "Do you have any idea of what is going on?" said John

- "No." said Marc. Marc was someone that Mr. John trusted a lot, who took care of the farm's finances. -
"But I saw Nick, your nephew near the barn at night".
Mr. John didn't trust Nick much.

- "It was obviously him!" I'll tell the police.

Mr. John ran to tell the police in the city, but when he got in the car he realized he had forgotten the key, when he came back, he saw Marc turning into something very strange, it seemed a bit like a monster we see in the fairy tales book, but, it was a real one, it looked more like a werewolf.

Desperately, John called the police, it turns out that Marc was a werewolf all of this time, and if Mr. John wouldn't have seen the real him, he would have made a terrible mistake with his nephew.

After Marc was arrested and taken to a special place, Mr. John talked to Nick.

- "I need to tell that I didn't trust you much, I'm sorry"

- "Everything is alright" he said "sometimes the person we trust the most is not a trustworthy being."

THE LEGENDARY WARETOBI

One week ago, mysteriously my dog escaped home. The next day, I ran the town to spread flyers on the streets to see if anyone could find him.

It was already dark when I was passing from an alley, I found a big and furry monster that looked like a werewolf, so I came back home with great fear. I entered quickly and locked the door. I turned on the TV and the local newspaper was saying that there was a big and furry beast entering the houses and attacking the residents during the night. After hearing this, I went to bed to try to calm down and forget the horrible image I had seen earlier.

The next morning I woke up and went out to have a coffee at my favorite bakery. After I came back I was very happy to see that my dog had returned home but he had blood all over his body, surprisingly, it wasn't his blood. I gave him a bath, and put him to rest, he was the same cute little dog as ever. But when the night came, Tobi had left again. Meanwhile the werewolf continued to attack the population.

A few days later, I hired a detective to help me find Tobi. With some investigation, we saw Tobi turning into a big and horrible beast and unfortunately we had to sacrifice him for the good of the citizens of our city, because he was the werewolf.

THE CURSE OF THE LAKE

It was 6 p.m. in the month of July. I was with my best friends, Maya and John at Camp Walleyfark. As Maya and I roasted marshmallows with the remaining wood, John was looking for more.

After some time, we realized that John was taking too long to come back. We started looking for him, a little bit worried. We looked everywhere in the camp, but no sign of him. Unsuccessfully, we decided to check out the lake. We walked towards it, and I went into a state of shock when I saw John, my best friend, floating in the deep waters of the lake, with a huge scratch of blood on his face. I managed to pull him over the edge, but it was too late.

I held John completely pale in my lap, and worse, lifeless. I started screaming desperately for Maya, until she arrived and froze, I just looked at her sadly. She sat down next to me and tears started to fall from our eyes. Without understanding what had happened, we were there, together, hugging the corpse of our best friend. Then, looking at the lake reflection, I saw John looking at me from the water. Before I could say anything, John's icy hand pulled me into the lake quickly. He told me he wanted someone to keep him company. And that's how I became a ghost, just like him.

THE HAUNTED GOLD

It was an ordinary night, four teenagers were going to fish at dawn. They stopped to refuel the car in a dark place and in the middle of nowhere. While refueling, Drake heard a very strange noise and went to see what the noise was, he found a piece of paper with something written on it.

In the note there were the words "spend the night and you will receive a map" as soon as Drake read it, he ran back to the car to tell his friends and so they decided to spend the night there. Dawn came and there was another mysterious paper next to car, this time it was written "behind the gas station there is map that you can find gold", and so the four friends were attracted to the place described, they found a very strange map with some scribbles saying "go to the mansion the City".

And so off they went to the mansion. When they arrived they rang the bell and an old man answered. One of the teenagers said: "Hello, can we come in? I think there is something very strange in your house." The old man replied: "No, leave here and never come back." But the teenagers wanted to know what was inside that house, and decided to wait for the man to fall asleep.

Luckily the back door was open, they found the basement and went down the ladder finding a chest. The gold was inside and quickly they took it out right to their car. In the middle of the way they met a ghost, what happens is that the gold is haunted and that the spirit of an old man now is going to follow them to eternity.

Sepam Literary Collection Project

The Sepam Literary Collections Project has been part of Sepam School Pedagogical Projects since 2017, aiming the stimulation of students to practice the writing, showing them that each one has his / her discursive ability and identity through written texts, and that we can not get caught up in the premises: "I do not know how to write" or "the teacher is the only reader of my text".

Being part of the discipline of Textual Production, this project permeates every year of Elementary II, with the procedural purpose of writing development.

We do not seek perfect materials, but texts with the peculiarities of our writers students, as well as the exposure of the world's knowledge and the experiences of each one of them.

The Project itself envisions giving wings to words woven in the classroom, invading other spaces and enchanting unknown readers.
